Columnist Invades Insect World with Knife and Fork

Columnist G. E. Mortimore (above) has gone adventuring with knife, fork and spoon along some new culinary trails. "Caterpillars are said to eat the same kind of food as cows," Mortimore observes, "so why shouldn't roast caterpillar taste as good as roast beef?"

We'll leave him to answer his own question. But if you have a delicate stomach, avoid the "All Aboard" column on Page 2.

Champing at Bit, Says Nixon

Ike Like Caged Lion

Playing It Down White House Habit

WASHINGTON (UP)—The initial White House description of President Eisenhower's brain artery damage Monday as a "chill" was the third time in three years that the initial public announcement of a major Eisenhower illness has been wrong.

The president's heart attack, suffered Sept. 24, 1955, at Denver Colo., was originally announced as a "digestive upset."

His attack of ileitis here June 8, 1956, which required an operation, was called a "stomach upset" in first reports from the White House.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER
... recovery certain

Eager To Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice-President Richard Nixon said Wednesday night President Eisenhower is "like a caged lion" and is champing at the bit in his eagerness to get back on the job.

Nixon also told a press conference at the White House: "I have no reason whatever to believe that the president is considering or will consider resigning."

He said that after seeing the president for 15 minutes and talking to the president's doctors, he is convinced that:

1. Eisenhower's recovery is certain.
2. The recovery may be even quicker than would normally be the case.

Nixon said he wanted to "scotch once and for all" any speculation that it might be necessary for the president to consider resigning.

Nixon stressed Eisenhower would make any major decisions but that no major decisions were foreseen at present.

Nixon said the president was anxious to go to Paris and that "if he had to make (the decision) himself he'd go."

Meanwhile, government officials lamented that the president fell ill at the most crucial "decision making" time of the year when in addition to the usual year-end budgetary and legislative planning, he was faced with the necessity of making tough and relatively quick decisions on national and international problems posed by Soviet scientific progress.

Wall Street Recovers

Wall Street made a complete recovery from its emotional disturbance, caused late Tuesday following news of President Eisenhower's latest illness.

By the end of the session, the Dow Jones industrial average was up 10.74 points, thus more than regaining the 9.04 points it had dropped in the panic of the last 20 minutes of Tuesday trading.

Sommers Remand Likely

Ribbery conspiracy trial of former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers and three other men will probably be remanded for another week when the accused appear in Vancouver police court this morning.

Mr. Sommers, together with C. D. Schultz, H. W. Gray and J. M. Gray are out on bail after being charged by the RCMP last week.

Protest in U.K.

H-Bombers Bring Storm

LONDON (UP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said yesterday he assumed American bombers were carrying hydrogen bombs on routine patrol flights from British bases. The statement set off an angry opposition protest in the House of Commons.

Lloyd defended the flights in a bitter dispute with "shadow" foreign secretary Aneurin Bevan, who demanded that he confirm whether British-based U.S. planes were carrying H-bombs on duty flights.

THEY ARE

"I am quite prepared to assume, for the purposes of answering this question, that they are," Lloyd replied.

"It would seem to me to be contrary to the spirit of our understanding if, whether flying from American or British bases, they did not do so in a state of readiness," he added.

"If these are on patrol duty and denoting a certain state of readiness," he continued, "it is absolutely right that they should be armed."

PLANES READY

U.S. Strategic Air Command boss, Gen. Thomas S. Power, said recently that one-third of all SAC planes were on 15-minute alert. Asked whether the planes were carrying nuclear bombs, Power said, "they're not carrying boxes and arrows."

In the Canadian Commons yesterday, Liberal C. W. Carter asked whether U.S. Air Force bombers may carry bombs when flying over Canada. "By agreement with the United States, only with permission of Canada," Defence Minister Peckles replied.

Pulp Unions Ready

'Long, Long Strike'

Unions involved in British Columbia's pulp and paper dispute "are in a position to continue this strike for a long, long period of time," John Sherman, international vice-president of the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers Union, said in Vancouver yesterday.

"But we want to find a solution," he said. "We don't want a bitter fight, but we feel that we are just in our cause."

It is estimated that $2,000,000 in wages and nearly $9,000,000 in production had been lost in the industry up to yesterday.

The nine mills affected, including four on Vancouver Island employing more than 1,600, turn out 10 per cent of the world's newsprint.

Mr. Sherman made his statement after a conference with M. J. Foley and D. R. Blair, chairman and manager of the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau, representing the six firms concerned.

NO PURPOSE
The three union officials at the meeting were given a letter that said if the union policy committee wished to talk about "more money than is set forth in the majority report of the conciliation board," the executive committee of the bureau could see no useful purpose in meeting with it.

"If, however, you wish to discuss a settlement within the scope of the board award, we will be prepared to arrange a meeting for that purpose."

Replied Mr. Sherman: "When they give us an ultimatum like that, our only alternative is to tighten our lines and be firm in our position."

AT STANDSTILL
"Issues that are unresolved must be discussed—if they can't be, you're at a standstill. That's not collective bargaining," he said.

The conciliation board recommended a 7½ per cent wage increase. The union is demanding 12 per cent.

Nobody Has to Work His Way Through Soviet Russia College

NEW YORK (UP)—Nobody has to work his way through college in Russia.

Students not only are paid to go to college, but they get government allowances for long, leisurely summer vacations every year.

This utopian picture of the academic life in the Soviet Union was painted by a third-year physics student identified as Yuri Zenzov, in a taped interview carried by CBS radio.

Questions were sent to Moscow where the answers were recorded and returned to New York.

"Ninety per cent of the students receive stipends," Zenzov said. "Only those whose marks are unsatisfactory, or who come from very well-to-do families, are not entitled to this stipend."

He said students get 300 to 400 rubles a month. The official exchange rate is four rubles to $1. Students are not called up for regular army service.

In Three Minutes

Quick Vote Passes Aid For Jobless

Benefits Start Earlier

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons after a day-long debate on unemployment, Wednesday night gave swift passage to one part of a double-barrelled government program to provide an additional $24,500,000 in aid for unemployed.

The debate was on a resolution preliminary to a bill to extend by two months the period in which special wintertime unemployment insurance benefits may be paid.

STARTS EARLIER

Starting date of the period will be pushed back to Dec. 1 from Jan. 1, with another month added beyond the present expiry date of April 15.

Discussion on the resolution went right to the 10 p.m. adjournment hour. At that point it was adopted and, by special consent among the parties, the bill was introduced and put through all three readings. This took only three minutes, with no debate, and the bill was sent to the Senate.

BUYING POWER

Labor Minister Michael Starr, opening preliminary debate on that proposal in the Commons yesterday, said it will provide an extra $13,000,000 in purchasing power this winter "to those who need it most."

Earlier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker informed the House that his government plans to start Jan. 1 an extension of federal sharing in provincial costs of unemployment relief. That plan was announced at the federal-provincial fiscal conference which ended Tuesday.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming estimated its annual cost at $11,500,000.

LEGISLATION SOON

Mr. Diefenbaker said legislation will be introduced this session to carry out that change, wiping out a so-called "threshold" provision by which federal sharing of provincial unemployment relief costs starts only when unemployment in a province exceeds 45 per cent of its population.

He said it will allow the provinces to make "more suitable arrangements" with their municipalities, which carry much of the relief load.

SUPPORT INDICATED

The Commons debate on the time extension for seasonal unemployment insurance benefits indicated all opposition parties will support it.

But most opposition speakers expressed concern over the rising totals of unemployed.

The latest report of what the government considers "official" figures on unemployment—a survey by the bureau of statistics—said 208,000 persons were without jobs and seeking work at Oct. 19, more than double the level of a year earlier.

Twin Saved

Kidney Donor On Feet

BOSTON (UP)—Jerry and Jimmy Foster, 14-year-old identical twin brothers from Pocatello, Idaho, were recovering yesterday at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, where they underwent a delicate kidney transplant.

A hospital spokesman said Jerry, the donor of a healthy kidney, was recovering rapidly from a lengthy operation Monday and was eagerly looking forward to turkey for Thanksgiving today.

Doctors said Jimmy, who was suffering from usually fatal nephritis, also was recovering, but because of the nature of the illness "it might take several more days before his overall condition can be evaluated."

The hospital said Jerry was feeling so well that he was able to be up and make a brief call on his brother at 11 a.m.

Posts His Own Bail

Cop Arrests Himself

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP)—A Port Angeles police sergeant arrested himself late Tuesday after being involved in a two-car collision, saying that "under the circumstances I would have taken in my own mother."

Sgt. Johnnie Sweatt went to the police station, had himself booked for failure to yield the right-of-way and posted $15 bail.

Sweatt, driving his own low-slung, foreign sports car, had made a U-turn and was still in the intersection when an automobile driven by William B. Anderson of Edmonds entered from the right. The cars collided. Sweatt estimated his damage at $700. Anderson's at $750. The police sergeant said the top of his sports car was so low that his vision was obscured.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

INSECTS have been biting mankind for centuries without suffering many casualties except for a squashed ant here, a few thousand snails eaten by Frenchmen, there.

Now at last comes a chance for people to launch a counter-attack with their teeth.

As a startling change of menu from the same dreary round of turkey, cranberry sauce and pudding, Christmas after Christmas, a tasty line of edible bugs is on sale at Victoria specialty food counters.

Fried worms, roasted caterpillars, grasshoppers and baby bees, and other foods that were formerly thought to be strictly for the birds, are featured at Eaton's Hostess Shop.

Roast caterpillars imported from Japan cost only 39 cents for a one-and-one-half-ounce tin.

Feed Entire Family

At the price of 75 cents for a tin containing one-and-one-fifth of an ounce, $3 or $4 will buy enough fried grasshoppers to feed the entire family, and any number of sparrows you invite for dinner. Fried silkworms can be purchased at the price of 79 cents for a can containing seven-tenths of an ounce—which gives rise to the suspicion that Japanese silkworm ranchers, faced with a declining market, are beefing their herds.

Canned baby bees are a little more expensive—$1.25 for three and one-half ounces.

By spending $2.15, you can dine on several ounces of roast agave worms imported from Mexico.

Japan appears to lead the world in making hors d'oeuvres out of the kind of things that little boys drop down little girls' necks.

The Nipponese are also undercutting the French in such commonplace viands as quails' eggs. You can buy a jar containing 16 eggs (four and three-fifths ounces) at the cheap price of $1.49. Needless to say, the eggs are laid by gaunt, hungry quail working for only a few yen a day.

Some Japanese Haggis?

For all we know, the Japanese may be tooling up to produce haggis, maple syrup, canned rattlesnake and other staples.

Rather than dwell upon the danger of cutthroat competition in the general gourmet trade, however, it is more pleasant to think of the Japanese as vendors of insects for the table—a field in which they are nearly unchallenged.

Always willing to rush into a new gustatory experience with open mind and open mouth, this writer looted Eaton's Hostess Shop of several dollars' worth of creepy-crawly groceries, took them to the office, and tried them for lunch.

This writer calls them as he sees them. According to one set of taste buds, insects are good eating. If this writer were a TV announcer, he would gladly step up to the camera, smack his lips and exclaim: "Man! THOSE are Agave Worms!"

Delicious, Nutty Flavor

The agave (pronounced a-gav-ey, we believe) worms are the best of all the cooked invertebrates. They resemble fat mummified wood-boring grubs, but they have a delicious, nutty flavor. Don't just take one man's word for it. Try some.

Grasshoppers have a pleasant nutty-salty taste. Close your eyes, and they might be slightly overcooked pretzels.

Baby bees have a nutty-charred-tart flavor which defies description. They do not sting.

The roasted caterpillars are too much for this critic's palate, however. They taste all right until you get to the middle of them. Then a dark, rasping taste grips the tongue, and won't let go.

Maybe just a soupcon too much seasoning has been applied to those caterpillars, or else they have been overcooked. Chef—next time, will you make my caterpillars rare?

Jail to Hold Some Youths

Juvenile offenders between 16 and 18 who are considered "security risks" will be held in the city jail in future rather than in the juvenile detention home, police commissioners said yesterday.

Mayor Percy Scourrah, police commission chairman, said that youngsters considered a security risk would be placed in the jail, in isolation from other prisoners.

Conditions at the home were first publicly disclosed in a report Col. Dingley made to the board of management of the home last week asking for immediate action. He asked that no juvenile delinquents over the age of 16 be sent to the home, or else that new, adequate premises be provided.

A special meeting Tuesday night to discuss the emergency ended after a two-hour talk among senior officials of Greater Victoria. The meeting decided to call for a report from the board.

Col. Dingley said last night he was disappointed that nothing more definite was done at the meeting.

Col. Dingley Stands Fast

Despite lack of positive action to correct startling conditions at Greater Victoria's Juvenile Foster Home, Col. W. S. Dingley, superintendent, will not resign as he originally threatened.

Instead, he said yesterday, he will stick by his post until inter-municipal red tape is unravelled sufficiently for him to see whether he will eventually get the help for which he asked.

"So far as I am concerned it would be unfair to resign at present," he said. "So long as the municipalities are prepared to do something, I should bear with them."

Main complaint by Col. Dingley is that youths of 17 and almost 18 are put into the home together with much younger boys.

Col. Dingley said that when he first saw the home—a house at 1527 Coldharbour Road—before it was finally bought to be used as the juvenile foster home, he condemned it as unsuitable for the work.

He said he first warned the home's board of management in 1952 that children "were steadily growing worse—harder and tougher with a don't-give-a-damn attitude."

"I am of the opinion that in the majority of delinquency cases parents are at fault. Parents are the key to the whole problem of delinquent children," he said.

Since the start of this year juvenile officers from the city and municipalities have had to remove eight children from the home because they were unmanageable.

Hope of Good Recovery

THERE will be much sympathy throughout Canada for President Eisenhower in the renewed threat to his health caused this week by what officially has been described as a slight cerebral attack. Happily the bulletins of his physicians since then have removed much of the incipient state of alarm, and given rise to the public impression that Mr. Eisenhower can weather this setback without undue strain on his constitution. Politics aside, there is probably no one in his country who enjoys a broader measure of goodwill among Canadians than the chief citizen of our neighbor to the south.

Like many a leader before him, President Eisenhower has been somewhat of a martyr to the times. The confidence and trust he earned as Allied war commander carried over into civil life and led, in his recall from a quiet berth at the head of Columbia University, to the leadership of his party and the White House. Twice his health had caused misgivings before this week's check. On both occasions however he made a successful recovery, subject only to the limitations of overwork and overstrain in a post of tremendous responsibilities. At present there is nothing in the news to suggest that the president will not once more win this personal battle against physical handicap.

Much as President Eisenhower means to his own country in its internal affairs, it is from the broader standpoint of international relations that any check to his health would need to be regarded by the Western world. Not only were two key conferences pending on his presence overseas, but any hint that there might be a changing of the guard in Allied councils would be judged as a major upset at this time. The events of the week have again highlighted a hiatus in the United States legislative system in matters requiring the joint assent of president and Congress. In law, no one can act for the president but the president while he is in office and vested with these express powers. Some recognition of the need of adjustment to cover the results of temporary disability or any similar interference with the normal duties of the office may yet lead to constitutional amendment as to delegation of authority within prescribed limits. If such a step could lessen the appalling drain on the strength and stamina of the man holding the highest executive post in the United States that would be to the clear gain of Mr. Eisenhower and of every other leader chosen for the White House in the years to come. National service should not kill.

Bureau Aid Unbalanced

WHAT the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau says about its inability to do a thorough job of attracting tourists to this region on the money it has to spend may be correct, but what is the answer?

This would be a bad time to ask city ratepayers for a heavily increased contribution, when preliminary estimates indicate the distinct possibility of another boost in tax bills next year to cover the rising cost of ordinary services.

The main trouble is that the whole basis of financial support for the bureau is out of kilter and has been so these many years. Of the money put up from public funds the City of Victoria has been carrying almost the entire load. To a bureau budget of $35,000 this year the City contributed $35,000, almost two-thirds, while Oak Bay paid $750, Saanich $500 and Esquimalt and Central Saanich nothing at all. The rest came from private sources.

This apportionment may have been reasonably fair long ago when it was the city merchants, hotels and so forth which derived nearly all the benefit from the bureau's efforts to bring tourists here.

The Seas Are Paramount

SOLDIERS are not usually sea-minded but the other day Field Marshal Montgomery told the crew of a British destroyer that control of the seas is still more important than guided missiles. The armchair strategists who believe that generals prepare for the future only in terms of the past may find fault with this sentiment. Since the sputniks went up into the stratosphere attention has been so focussed on intercontinental ballistics as to assign all other armaments almost to oblivion. As far as Great Britain is concerned however the sea is still its shield and its lifeline.

The victor of El Alamein said further that without control of the seas not very much can be done on land. Somewhat akin to this was a remark made recently by Marshal Malinkovsky, the man who took the place of the ousted Soviet defence minister, Marshal Zhukov, that among other things a war must be won by the foot soldiers. That is to say physical possession must be taken if a victory is to be complete. In the case of Great Britain, even allowing for the rapid advances in military air transportation, that means crossing water to enter that land. The role of the navy therefore is still of major design.

Apart from immediate guardianship of Britain, of course, there is the long range aspect of free seas. Even were Britain not attacked directly it is dependent for daily life on the passage of ships to its shores. The nation would starve otherwise, and that it will never do without fight. Canada, the United States, Russia—each of these has space to use strategically. The United Kingdom has none. Its most is the waters that lap a comparatively small island. It is no wonder then that in spite of sputniks or guided missiles Great Britain must look to the navy as a vital part of its defence structure; as important now as ever it was. For it is the navy that must shepherd the ships that bring the sustenance.

Interpreting the News:

Defection to West Continuing

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

THE East German communists are getting alarmed over the steady flow of refugees to West Berlin and West Germany.

There are increasing indications that the Communist puppet regime may soon try to stop the flight by isolating West Berlin and tightening control of the border between East and West Germany.

If that happens, it may mean serious trouble for West Berlin, which is isolated from West Germany by a 110-mile stretch of Communist-controlled territory.

Since 1949, when West Germany's remarkable economic recovery got really started, about 2,000,000 East Germans have fled the Communist part of the country. Most of them have crossed from East Berlin to West Berlin. The flight has reduced East Germany's population by more than 10 per cent.

The flow of refugees continues at the rate of about 300,000 a year.

Until recently the East German Reds did little to stop the movement. One reason was that East German economy is in a bad state, especially since the Polish revolt, which sharply reduced the amount of raw materials available for factories. Another was that those who fled obviously were enemies of the Communist regime and potential trouble makers.

But now the flight from Red rule seems to have reached the point where its continuance will weaken East German industry.

The refugees arriving in West Berlin and West Germany now include a big proportion of intellectuals and skilled workers. More than half of those who flee are under 25 years of age. Communist officials and members of the militarized Red police are scattered among the older ones.

Any determined Communist move to stop the flight would tend to increase the isolation of West Berlin.

Western officials fear that, for one thing, the Reds as part of an isolation campaign would impede railroad and highway communications between West Berlin and West Germany.

They would be expected to interfere with Allied airplane communications along the authorized air lanes between Berlin and the western part of the country.

Anxiety of Germans in the western part of the former capital is increased because of fear that the United States might not be willing to hazard a crisis with Soviet Russia by defending them.

This is one of the repercussions, now being felt throughout Western Europe, of Russia's successes in the field of nuclear missiles.

There are reports that the East Germans may start an isolation campaign soon. Allied officials are watching the situation closely. That is about all they can do unless the Reds act.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A COLLEAGUE along the hall notes that the St. Andrew and Caledonian Society's new Holyrood House will be available for use—at the going rate, naturally—even by the Sassenachs.

And so it will, for the operating currency is Canadian.

Norman is a brave man. I saw him at the opening ceremony last Saturday afternoon, and although his accent makes him suspect he never batted an eye.

Indeed he walked in with the other special guests, nearly all of whom had a certain gene in their makeup, with aplomb.

I thought I detected a slight quiver when the Salire was hoisted, which no doubt brought back memories of those border raids he speaks of. Whether this was inherited guilt betraying itself or merely a strengthening of his resolve to board the Gaels in their den I'll have to ask him.

Incidentally it was said when the St. Andrew's flag went up that this was the first time it had flown over a building in Victoria. If that's so some early pioneers must have been very modest chaps.

You won't see much of the Salire elsewhere in town, however, so take a good look at it when you pass Holyrood House. This flag is hard to get, you know. In fact the aliens of this place look ignorant when you try to buy one.

St. George has had better luck, even if he is a later day saint. Padre Hills runs his emblem to the top of a church flagstaff. The RCN flies it from every ship's stern.

If it weren't that I have some good friends in the navy I'd tell you what one of those Gaels told me, to wit: that the White Ensign is improper. But then maybe he's prejudiced.

Norman mentions the Ardnahain Room—Holyrood House is a suite of varying sized halls, you know. Ardnahain means hospitality, and he couldn't square this with a document on the wall asking the Pope to frighten away the Sassenachs.

Ah well, that was way back in the dim ages. In 1320 to be precise, and you must remember last Saturday was a sort of Hogmanay in advance. Bonnie Dundee and all that. When Norman goes again to Holyrood House he'll find the ardnahain awaiting him with gusto, as it will all good folk.

Indeed the aforesaid document will be hanging in another room, I believe.

One thing I'll have to say for these Victoria Scots, whom of course I only know by hearsay. They've built Holyrood House with the blood, sweat and tears of their own efforts—plus their bawbees, too.

This is easily the best building of its kind in all of Canada, I'll warrant. The inside is so sumptuous and spacious it takes your breath away, and when those Gaels are finished with all the fancy work they plan as adornment—why, it will be altogether unique.

It's a credit not only to the Caledonian Society but to Victoria.

For all their martial pride of heritage, and their pipes and reels and tartan clannishness, these Victoria Scots have done the town a fine service. If you don't believe me call at Holyrood House and look it over for yourself.

It's really grand.

I take off my hat to them, and Sassenach or no, I'm sure Norman does too.

"Button, button, who gets the button?"

Gerald Waring

Reports from Ottawa

THE deadly serious game of "Who pushes the button?" deserves a new name after the latest parliamentary disclosures on continental air defence planning.

Now it should be, "How many can push the button?"

The confusion over button-pushers stems from a series of statements by Defence Minister Peakes. In August he said, "There's no time for consultation. If war comes they will put their agreed-on plans into effect." The "they" are the commander and deputy commander of the North American Air Defence Command, Gen. Eade Partridge, USAF, and Air Marshal Roy Slemmon, RCAF. Then on Nov. 3 Peakes said that Partridge, "after consultation with the Canadian government and the government of the U.S., would be able to commit either American or Canadian forces" in the defence of Canada.

Then last Friday Peakes deliberately discarded the word "consultation." Now his "understanding" is that Partridge would ask for Canadian "clearance" before dispatching USAF planes from U.S. bases into Canada to intercept hostile planes over this country.

Peakes, treating each successive statement as a clarification of the earlier ones and in no way contradictory, went on to state that all interceptor planes in Canada, whether RCAF or USAF, are under the command of Air Vice-Marshal Larry Wray at RCAF air defence headquarters at St. Hubert. In case of aerial invasion Wray "has the authority to dispatch aircraft to investigate the situation," meanwhile reporting to the government at Ottawa and to Partridge and Slemmon at Colorado Springs.

Does this mean Wray can push the button if his investigation shows the planes revealed by radar are hostile? Or does he first have to ask Prime Minister Diefenbaker or General Peakes? And if they are not immediately available to answer his phone call, what then? And how about Partridge? Does he keep his planes in the U.S. while awaiting clearance from Diefenbaker or Peakes?

Obviously nothing will be permitted to delay interception of hostile bombers laden with nuclear bombs. So seemingly we have at least five potential button-pushers: Diefenbaker, Peakes, Partridge, Slemmon and Wray.

On the political side, the Liberals describe the joint Canadian-American action on NORAD as "agreement by press release." So far the only basic written agreement covering the air defence planning establishment at Colorado Springs is the press communiqué issued in August by Peakes and the then U.S. defence secretary, Charles M. Wilson.

The Grits want to know the authority under which the government acted, and also when the agreement will be submitted to parliament for approval, as was done in the case of the NATO agreement eight years ago.

On this point Diefenbaker told the Commons that the government will inform parliament, but will not ask its approval.

"The major reason" the NATO agreement was submitted to parliament, Diefenbaker explained, "was that Canadian troops were to be taken outside Canada. . . . Canadian troops should never," he added, "be required to serve beyond the confines of Canada except with the consent and on the determination of parliament."

Diefenbaker is now likely to be asked how it is, then, that Slemmon and some 40 RCAF personnel are being required to serve at Colorado Springs. And also about Peakes' statement in August that RCAF planes under NORAD orders would ignore the international boundary and would fly and fight over the U.S. if the exigencies of battle so required.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

ON a recent weekend gathering at a lodge there were 18 guests, 14 of whom brought cameras of one kind or another, two or three being miniature movie cameras.

During the weekend, though the weather was fine, nine of the 14 cameras were not used at all; one of the movie cameras, belonging to a real fan, took a few feet of a group of us standing on the lodge steps; and as far as I could find out from the rest, a total of about 10 snapshots were made.

It seems to me we are growing tired of pictures. There was a saying a few years ago in the newspaper profession that one picture was worth a thousand words. Thus the press launched into the era of pictures, filling the papers with them. Meanwhile, the movies were bringing pictures in perfection. And then arrived the TV in almost every home, and picture saturation became complete.

Yet the camera shops, today are more numerous than ever, filled with a wonderful inventory of cameras of every shape and cost. The film today, both black and white and color, has reached undreamed-of efficiency. Doubtless the number of camera fiends is greater than ever. But who do they show their pictures to? Who's interested? It must be 10 or 15 years since anybody tried to entertain me for the evening by showing me their snapshot album. Thirty years ago, everybody had a snapshot album.

What chance has a snapshot album in the modern home with the TV right there, turned on?

On the Record

Reward of Endurance

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE emphasis that has perpetually been put upon the poverty of the Russian people and of Russian life in terms of consumers' goods and material amenities has been very dangerous for the "more advanced" nations of the West.

Russia's leaders have never denied Western superiority in many fields. They have, on the contrary, admitted it, while contending that a socialist society, even one starting in a primitive, agrarian, underdeveloped country, could and would catch up with and overtake the old "advanced" societies in a startlingly short span of time, and in the very fields where Western pre-eminence was universally acknowledged—industrial development based on scientific technology.

The launching of the first two earth satellites celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the Russian Bolshevik revolution, at a time when the leaders of all the Communist states were in Moscow.

It announced, without the need of verbal propaganda, that the Russian claim had been fulfilled and at the point of highest scientific and technological development, the adventure into the exploration of outer space.

It announced without the need of further elaboration that a "backward" and underdeveloped nation, 40 years ago a land of largely illiterate peasants, had progressed into the twentieth—or the twenty-first—century, at a hitherto unprecedented rate of rapidity.

That this accomplishment has been achieved at an enormous cost of sweat, blood and tears endured by the Russian people; that it has required perpetual postponement of hopes for an easier, more comfortable life; that it has been exacted by the iron hand of tyranny, is more immaterial than we like to think.

As a matter of historical fact, rapid industrial development—the transition from a scattered, largely autonomous agrarian economy to a highly integrated industrial-technological one—has always been accompanied by sweat, blood and tears exacted by one means or another. In our own country it was not accomplished without a bloody civil war. In others (Great Britain in particular) it was achieved only by sacrifices of the "bold peasantry, the nation's hoard"; by child labor; and by the ruthless withholding from the new class of wage workers of the fruits of their toil.

Industrialization requires enormous initial accumulations of investment—capital that must be gathered from the mass of human society, whether the capitalists are individuals or stock companies or, as in the Russian case, the state itself.

Democracy, trade unions, measures of social amelioration, extension of the franchise, and gradual equalization of distribution have always followed, not preceded, the industrial revolution.

Even these, to a philosophical mind contemplative of human values, have never wholly compensated for the loss of other freedoms and forms of self-realization, sacrificed in the transition of man as an autonomous creature into the mass organizations which reduce him to a function.

The West, however, has exported to the whole world the idea that the industrial technological society represents the highest human achievement. And it has been to the West, that the more primitive nations and peoples have turned for machines and know-how. But the gap, even in terms of time, between such peoples and the "advanced" nations has appeared enormous—and discouraging.

We have utterly failed to recognize that the fact that Russia was and still is in many respects, "backward," is not a liability but an asset. In drawing peoples similarly situated to her side—and to the side of Communist organization, Russia says, "Consider where we were 40 years ago and where we are now. There is a quicker way to catch up with and eventually surpass the advanced West than it is offering you. We have launched a satellite into space and all the great technological societies, whose evolution has taken centuries, are in a horrified dither." (As they all too loudly are.)

This, I think, is the point—and not how many Russians own motor cars or have bathrooms.

Letters to the Editor

'Fighters' or Brains?

We often hear the expression at nominating conventions "He's a fighter."

Personally, after reading various accounts of "fighters," in municipal, civic and provincial affairs I would now be inclined to favor a candidate that was credited with intelligence, personality and equanimity.

There is not a reason in the world why a gathering of intelligent people cannot forego personal animosities and carry on the people's business for which they allowed themselves to be elected.

One pugnacious individual lacking in creative thinking, yet with a critical eye for personal publicity, can completely upset the business of a council meeting.

Civic and municipal elections are near at hand. Now is the time to decide upon the merits and qualifications of the candidates. Let us choose only those capable of working in harmony in the administration of our affairs and forego the "fighters" in favor of conscientious intelligence.

Bitter Feeling

Now we are so near municipal elections it is interesting to read in the columns of the Colonist the views expressed by prospective candidates and it is also gratifying to see that young men have come forward to give part of their time in the development and welfare of the municipality in which they reside.

I wish to pay particular reference to the municipality of Saanich which has been going through rough seas in recent years through its rapid development and unfortunately with a council too weak to meet the expansion and its responsibilities. Then again there appears to have been a bitter feeling within the council against Reeve Arthur Ash which was shown at the first meeting after his election for reeve, and which has shocked the electors.

First Fish a Winner

We saw in our Sunday Colonist that our son Bobby was one of four anglers to win a glass fishing rod for entering the King Fisherman contest during October.

We thought you might be interested in knowing that this was his first fish to be caught, and on a borrowed rod at that. To say that this rod will be an incentive to future fishing is putting it mildly. We are enclosing a picture of Bob with the two fish caught the day of his entry. Bob was eight years old on June 27. He is surely anxious to see that rod, although he has not as yet received official notice of his win.

Missed the Point

Re "Training a Dog" (Colonist, Nov. 26): In the first place Mr. Sneed missed the point completely. Mrs. Frost wrote re a hit-and-run driver and Mr. Sneed wrote a grudge letter because dogs bark and snarl at him.

Just because there are cars on the road it doesn't mean that all dogs have to be chained up. A lot of dogs have more car sense than some pedestrians.

I have been bitten by dogs before, but still I would never side with a hit-and-run driver. The least a driver could do is stop.

No Warrant for Break-In

Woman Terrified By Police Action

TORONTO (BUP)—The Metropolitan Toronto police commission has called for a full investigation into complaints that two plain clothesmen broke into a house without a search warrant and aroused the sleeping occupants, a man and his wife.

Lorne McLarty, 25-year-old truck driver, complained the men pounded on his door at 3:45 a.m. and then broke it open and burst into the bedroom before he could get out of bed.

WIFE SCARED

He said one of them had a shotgun.

"We didn't know if they were gangsters or what. My wife is expecting a child and you can imagine the effect it had on her. After they left she woke up every three hours shaking with fright," McLarty said.

The police were hunting for five men who had robbed Alexander Kelly of $1,800 outside his Etobicoke home. A suspect's car with the motor still warm was found near the McLarty home and was registered to the McLarty house.

SUSPECT CLEARED

It was later discovered that the suspect had moved from the house before the McLartys moved in. Later the suspect was discovered four houses away and cleared of any connection with the robbery.

Police maintain there was no time to stop for a search warrant because they were in "hot pursuit" of a man suspected in an armed robbery holdup.

Research Chief Advises:

Forget Russia, Boost Science

MONTREAL (CPI)—All possible encouragement to Canadian science is more important than fretting over what Russia is doing, Dr. E. W. R. Steacie said Wednesday night.

The president of the National age of engineers and scientists in Canada is not too acute but could become so if Canada's economy continues to expand.

He said the question of the education of engineers and scientists should not be treated as a race with Russia.

"The real questions are whether we are educating enough needs and whether we are educating them well.

"If we are worried about the pace of Russian science, the answer is not to copy Russia but to make sure that we are giving the maximum encouragement to Canadian science."

Because of the birth rate and other factors, Dr. Steacie looked for a tremendous increase in university enrolment which would automatically increase the supply of scientists and engineers—provided the universities can expand accordingly to take care of them.

The critical factor "is simply whether we choose to give the universities the support they need or not."

PARIS (Reuters) — The gov-ernment of Premier Felix Gail-lard suffered an unexpected set-back Wednesday night when the National Assembly voted 300 to 194 against the Algerian reform bill.

It was the refusal of the as-sembly to pass such a bill last Sept. 30 which caused the down-fall of the previous government of Maurice Bourges-Maunoury.

ILL HUMOR

Lobbyists said they thought the anti-government vote by the extreme right could be inter-preted as a sign of ill humor rather than an indication that the bill would be defeated when voted upon as a matter of con-fidence — probably Friday.

Nevertheless, the government asked for a special session of Parliament today to submit a new electoral bill similar to the one under discussion Wednes-day night.

At the United Nations, France defended her Algerian policy Wednesday amid grow-ing indications that the Afro-Asian voting bloc may press the issue of colonialism against the wishes of the big three Western powers.

In the assembly's political committee, in which all 82 UN member countries participate, Foreign Minister Christian Pin-eau declared that the main issue in the revolt-torn French North African territory is the "real interests" of the Moslem and French populations con-cerned.

TERROR OR PEACE?
"Should they be delivered to terror, poverty, totalitarianism or anarchy?" he asked. Or

Baby Chokes To Death

Funeral services for 17-month-old Douglas John Esplen, 159 Robertson, who died of suffocation when he choked on food Tuesday, will be held at Hayward's funeral home at 10:30 a.m. Friday.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert John Esplen; a brother, Tommy; grandpar-ents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Smart of Victoria and Mr. and Mrs. John Esplen of Dauphin, Man.

Prize Birds Take Prizes

About 150 fat, luscious turk-eyes, some of the best of 50,000 being killed on Vancouver Island for the Christmas sea-son, were on display at Buck-erfield, 2105 Douglas, yesterday.

This was the 11th annual dressed turkey show of the Vancouver Island Turkey Im-provement Association.

Turkey farmers, Charles Stronach of Nanaimo and E. A. H. Mitchell of Metehosin, car-ried off all 10 trophies up for competition.

Grand Champion award was won by Mr. Stronach for the fourth year, this time with a 24½-pound, bronze-breasted brood turkey.

The bird was later auctioned to butcher Jack Stuart for $37. Mr. Stuart said he will give the turkey to the Protestant Orphanage and Mr. Stronach said he will contribute the $37 to the March of Dimes.

Mr. Mitchell is giving $15 of the $30 his reserve grand champion award turkey brought in the auction of prize-winning

U.S. Official Says:

'Neck-and-Neck In Missile Work'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Don-ald Quarles, deputy U.S. defence secretary, testified Wednesday night that he believes the United States and Russia are running "neck-and-neck" in the development of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Quarles said that "as a whole today," the United States mis-sile program is ahead of Russia's.

Allen Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, gave the committee an ominous secret report on Russian mili-tary production.

Members of the committee said he painted "a sad and shocking" picture that, when disclosed in a report by the committee, should "shock" Americans "out of their com-placency."

City Urged To Raise Wharf Rate

An increase in mooring rates for boats at Fishermen's Wharf to the maximum allowed by the federal government will be recommended to city council by the public works committee.

Despite a hike, the rates will be well below charges levied at commercial docks, City Engi-neer J. C. Garnett told the com-mittee Tuesday.

At the same time, the federal government will be asked to im-prove the western jetty of the wharf so that 40-foot vessels can be double-berthed.

The government has barred the docking of large vessels at the wharf's western end because the jetty was not considered strong enough for safe mooring.

Friendly Greeting

One of the leading contenders for horse-of-the-year honors, Gallant Man pokes a nose from his stall to receive a welcome from Sam, the Flamingo, on the thoroughbred's arrival in Miami for the opening of the Hialeah turf season. Both Gallant Man and Bold Ruler, the other top candidate as the outstanding horse, will campaign at Hialeah and they are expected to meet several times in hand handicaps the next few months in an effort to settle the title. Parker Finally Wins Elusive Award; Named Canada's Outstanding Gridder

Jackie Parker, triple-threat quarterback and half-back who led Edmonton Eskimos to three straight Grey Cup victories and who again proved the spark of the WIFU club this season, Wednesday night was named the outstanding football player in Canada.

The former Mississippi State star beat out Hal Patterson, Montreal's brilliant pass-catching end and defensive halfback, who won the Schenley award over Parker in 1956. Sports writers and broadcasters in the Big Four and WIFU football cities made the selections.

Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who led the WIFU in scoring with a record 131 points, including 19 touchdowns, was chosen the outstanding Canadian in pro football for the second time in three years. Runner-up to the 23-year-old James was Bobby Kuntz, two-way back with Toronto Argonauts.

Kaye Vaughn, rugged two-way tackle with Ottawa Rough Riders, won the award as the outstanding lineman for the second successive year. The 25-year-old Vaughn, formerly with University of Tulsa, won out over Edmonton's Art Walker.

PASTRANO WINS: Willie Pastrano used a flicking left hand to quell the late surges of Germany's Willi Besmanoff and win a unanimous 10-round decision in their nationally televised bout from Miami last night. But it was an unimpressive win for the third-ranked heavyweight, who seemed slower than usual and he could not muster the power for the expected knockout victory. . . . The shift of the Los Angeles franchise in the Pacific Coast Baseball League to Spokane seemed more certain than ever yesterday after city commissioners agreed conditionally to rebuild Fenwick Field to provide a suitable park. . . . Veteran Canadian players Bill Briggs and Mike King, once an all-star fullback, have announced their retirement from the Edmonton Eskimos.

RANGERS LOSE: Milano, the Italian first division club, beat Glasgow Rangers, the Scottish champions, 4-1, yesterday in the first round of the European Soccer Cup competition. The return game will be played in Milan, Dec. 11. . . . An official of the Saskatchewan Roughriders yesterday described as "eyewitness" reports that George Traflet, former coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, will coach the Riders next season. . . . Lester Pigott, Britain's leading rider at 22, will ride Alberta Ranch horses at the coming Santa Anita meeting until veteran Johnny Longden returns to the saddle. . . . The midwest dominated the United Press all-American football team. First string, as selected by the ballots of 275 writers, was ends, Jimmy Phillips (Auburn) and Canadian junior champion Harvey Hurd. Bob Hunt and Len Tolson joined Jimmy Wells in the semi-finals of the Saanich open badminton tournament at Brentwood last night by posting victories.

Hurd got a tussle from Mel Chapman before scoring a 14-15, 17-15, 15-7 victory; Hunt, a former city champion, downed Roger Lindal, 8-15, 15-8, 18-15, and Tolson won a 15-6, 15-11 battle from Jack LeQuenne.

In a semi-final tonight, Hedley will meet Hunt. . . . Ottawa Will Help Saskatchewan Dam

OTTAWA (C.P.)—The federal idea of giving back to the province of Saskatchewan the cost of the dam project was prepared to be put before the Saskatchewan government today.

The Saskatchewan government has been given, he said, the authority for a day or so to consider the division of costs.

The only question is the making of terms, he said after a conference with Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan.

The two government heads met for two hours Wednesday morning.

Later Mr. Douglas said he is hopeful of seeing a report on the $20-million project by next April.

The prime minister was not committed on the project and he made clear his government has gone to the aid of the dam project. He said the federal government will pay the cost of the dam project and the province will pay the cost of the dam project.

ROADMASTER 75
Superior styling, performance, and comfort. A Buick that's a million uses in one.

EVERY TIME a spark hits a charge, 12,000 pounds of force hit the piston. And every time you call for action, you feel what that thrust can do.

That's the beauty of this B-12000 engine—it gives you a response like nothing else short of wings.

It's eager for the miles and mountains.

And in traffic, too, the '58 Buick gives you a wholly fresh idea about driving.

For there's where the B-12000 engine teams up with a Flight Pitch Dynaflow* that switches its pitch a million ways. Which means perfect performance ratio for the need at hand—perfect nimbleness and instant obedience like never before.

So why wait when there's all this to discover, plus an Air-Poise Suspension* that makes you feel like you're floating?

Why—when you can be piloting a B-58 Buick born of more aviation principles than any other car?

See your quality Buick dealer. He's a regular bureau of information on the subject. You'll like what he tells you—and like even better what he demonstrates for you.

*Air-Poise Suspension optional at extra cost on all Series. Flight Pitch Dynaflow standard on LIMITED and ROADMASTER 75; optional at extra cost on other Series. Aluminum Front Brakes standard on all Series except SPECIAL.

Victoria Jaycees will ask Greater Victoria municipalities today to hold referendums during next month's elections on the establishment of a royal commission to investigate the question of amalgamation.

And the Jaycees will tell municipalities they are asking them to hold referendums if necessary.

In a letter to Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay councils the amalgamation committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will say it is sure it could produce petitions signed by 40 per cent of electors in each municipality, called for by the referendum.

Elderly Woman Gives 'Recipe' for Health

One day last week I went to visit 26 single people. I had a delightful coffee party in and for you have of this another of the Victoria Senior Citizens Housing Inc. In the window of the Pastore Centre, where the get-together was held, there was a model of the proposed apartment building to house these people. I was very much interested in the well-being of the elderly. From a purely selfish motive, you and I may possibly reach that stage of life one day and will wish to be long then.

In a nutrition publication I recently read the following: "The most important factor in the prevention of nutritional deficiency is not one's diet, but the establishment of good eating habits in early life. A self-disciplined person will not allow himself to be misled by the advertising of food products. He will be guided by the principles of good nutrition, which are based on the fact that the body is a machine which must be kept in good working order. It is the responsibility of the individual to see that his body is properly nourished and that his diet is balanced and varied."

I would like to see the fruits of this wisdom in the lives of the elderly. Many of them are still in the prime of life, and their diet should be as varied and balanced as that of the young. It is the responsibility of the individual to see that his body is properly nourished and that his diet is balanced and varied.

And the fruits of this wisdom are many. They are the fruits of good health, of a long life, of a life well lived. They are the fruits of a diet that is balanced and varied, of a diet that is based on the principles of good nutrition.

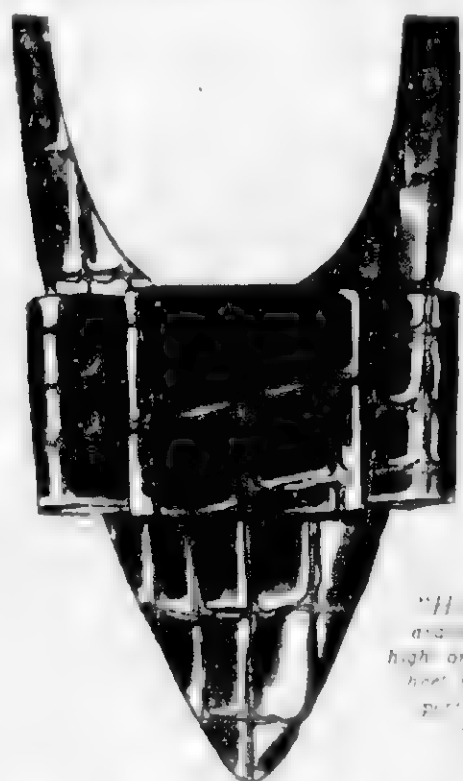

In the past, many of the elderly have suffered from nutritional deficiencies. This was due to a lack of knowledge of the principles of good nutrition. It is our hope that the elderly will now be able to avoid these deficiencies by following the principles of good nutrition.

It is our hope that the elderly will now be able to avoid these deficiencies by following the principles of good nutrition. It is our hope that the elderly will now be able to avoid these deficiencies by following the principles of good nutrition.

Health Act Allows Stinkers

TRAIL (CP)—Some of the provisions of the Public Health Act are undemocratic and the entire legislation is in need of overhaul, Dr. C. J. G. McKenzie, director of the West Kootenay Health Unit, told the Trail and District Women's Conservative Association.

"If you read the act," he said, "you'll realize what a stinker I could be."

He said, for instance, he would enter any premises in daylight hours without having to give a reason. He thought that as a power should be removed from the act.

B.C. Building Shows Decline

VANCOUVER, B.C. — The construction industry in B.C. during the first nine months of the year showed a definite decline. The B.C. The decline was attributed to a number of factors, including a shortage of labour and materials, and a general lack of confidence in the future of the economy.

Turn smoking smells into country air quick with air-wick air-wick overpower odors...not people!

Ordinary room deodorizers just cover up odors, but Air-Wick kills odors and freshens up the air. Air-Wick contains Nature's own scent, which slowly but effectively destroys odors of cooking, bath, smoking, bedrooms and closets. Get it at your favorite store.

STRONGEST! Air-Wick is 3 times as effective, by official tests. Faster, too. (Authoritative test reports available on request.)

OUTSELLS ALL OTHERS—ALL AROUND THE WORLD! In 62 countries Air-Wick is proven more effective every day by more people in more places than all other deodorants combined.

A-Plane Tested?

HONG KONG, Reuters: An said dual-purpose engines will be installed in atomically powered aircraft. It has been installed in Russia the New China news agency reported yesterday.

The agency was quoting an article in the Soviet magazine Young Technicians, which was widely reported in all Beijing newspapers yesterday.

The complex question of reducing the weight of equipment to shield passengers from atomic radiation has been solved by Soviet engineers, said a Colonel Valvalov.

Super speed non-stop flying round the globe in atomic planes will come at a not too distant date, he said.

To protect aircrew personnel from radioactivity, Valvalov has suggested that the aircraft should be equipped with a special shield to protect the crew from radiation.

The shield would be made of a material that is resistant to radiation and would be placed around the crew compartment.

Amazing liquid laundry discovery washes clothes spotless white!

— whiter than any powder ever made!

It's new blue WISK — the amazing liquid detergent that works with water so efficiently, so completely that it gets clothes cleaner, whiter than any powder ever can!

HERE'S WHY WISK WORKS IN YOUR WASHER AS NO POWDER CAN!

POWDERS float aimlessly when put into wash water. Even when agitated, often stick to your clothes, sometimes don't dissolve, and half the wash is over. You can't expect lazy powders to do a complete, effective washing job!

LIQUID WISK is a natural with water because it dissolves instantly and completely as no powder can. That means WISK gives you full washing efficiency during the entire wash to get even your dirtiest wash SPOTLESS WHITE!

NO POWDER can combine with water so completely and so effectively, to give full washing power!

NO POWDER can dissolve instantly like blue liquid WISK!

NO POWDER can instantly penetrate through every fibre to loosen and chase away deep down dirt!

NO POWDER can get all your family wash so clean, so white...so SPOTLESS WHITE!

Get new blue liquid WISK today. Lever Brothers are so sure you'll like new liquid WISK better than any detergent you've ever used, that they guarantee WISK unconditionally. Your money will be returned if you're not entirely satisfied!

Blackboard Jungle Ruled By Mayhem

NEW YORK (UP)—A Brooklyn grand jury has asked that a policeman be assigned to patrol in each of the city's public schools to protect students and teachers from juvenile violence.

Kings county judge Samuel Lebowitz assigned the jury to a full-scale investigation of school house mayhem after it was brought out in his courtroom that a teen-aged boy who had tried to blind a classmate with lye had a history of mental disturbance and physical violence dating back to his earliest school days.

Lebowitz said one case involved a 14-year-old girl who was found to be carrying a loaded revolver in class. The other involved charges that another 14-year-old girl tore handfuls of hair from the scalp of a teacher who had ordered her to stand in line with other pupils.

She said the school principal suggested the girl be transferred to another school, which the parents refused.

CHILD MOLESTED

The judge told the jury that the mother of a 10-year-old girl came to him recently with a report of sexual and physical assaults on her child dating over two years. He said the mother told him the girl had been sexually assaulted two years ago by a fellow student. The boy has subsequently threatened the girl.

These people breathed easier Tuesday than they have for the last several months. Half-a-dozen newspapers told them that the sweeping crescents of fine, tall houses built 130 years ago by regency architect John Nash may not be demolished after all.

John Nash, who lived from 1752 to 1845, was a little Cockney with a genius for town planning and for building stone and stuccoed houses of classical simplicity and beauty.

In the borough of St. Marylebone he designed Regent's Park and ringed it with terraced crescents of pillared, cream-colored homes.

He linked the green slopes, trees and ponds of this park to St. James' Park in Westminster with his "Royal Mile," a series of broad streets flanked by more of his buildings—Portland Place, Oxford Circus, Regent Street, Piccadilly Circus and Waterloo Place—to The Mall.

BUSINESS DISTRICT

Much of the Royal Mile now is a bustling, neoned business district in the heart of London. But most of the Regent's Park terraces and the grandeur of his Charlton House, a vast block on The Mall, remain.
